Dear Wendy and Jim,

Today is Nov. 18, 2003, Four years ago on this very day, Nov 18, 1999, the Seattle Post Intelligencer released the story Uncivil Action, A Town left to Die.

Its been a very long four years and my life was shattered with broken dreams. I am left with a heart full of anger, hurt , grief and scars. Scars that were not noticeable because they were hidden deep inside. Scars that left no certainly for the future.

Oct .28, 2003 I had an outbreak of Shingles. Shingles that were cause by emotional stress, grief and depression. Each morning now when I look in the mirror I see the scars caused by the emotional stress and trauma left from dealing with WR Grace and EPA, discrimination, harassment and persecution.. The scars are no longer hidden, anyone who looks at me now can see the scars.

It is hard to restore a life when each day is full of emptiness, fatigue and discouragement..

The discrimination between job sites is very evident and the promises and lies amaze me.

Mel said you called and wanted to talk to me. Wendy I attended most meeting the last four years and I saw creed, hostility and a community torn apart. I tried to talk at CAG and EPA meeting but when the meetings were over there was no one left to discuss the issues with.

I fell that my family have been treated unjustly by Gala Benifield, EPA and WR Grace.

If Gala really cared her Lawyers and her would of told us,"The Parkers" we had a problem when we bought the property in 1992.

EPA decieved us about replacement costs and policy changes and lied to us . Just like Volpe an Paul K.

WR Grace are ruthless, A company with no passion and are murders.

A quote by Andrea Peacock page 3. There are women who are born to struggle with life, who embrace the fight and wear the scars as proud evidence of their ability to overcome the obstacles they have chosen for themselves.

I am not proud of the scars of life from the last four years.

Please do not pass the pictures around the office The pictures are confidential.

Sincerely,

Lerah Parker
